JAZZ DRUMMER AKIRA TANA RETURNS TO ANNUAL SATSUKI BAZAAR AND ARTS FESTIVAL

BERKELEY – Renowned jazz drummer Akira Tana – whose father was a minister at the Berkeley Buddhist Temple before World War II -- is returning to headline the entertainment at the temple's 68th annual Satsuki Bazaar and Arts Festival on Sunday, May 21.

The two-day bazaar and arts festival, which is the major fundraiser for the temple, will be held from 3 to 9 p.m. Saturday, May 20, and from 12 noon to 7 p.m. Sunday, May 21. The temple is located at 2121 Channing Way.

The entertainment, which will be free, will feature Tana performing with Otonowa featuring koto player Shoko Hikage; Berkeley temple member and acclaimed drummer Paul Yonemura & Friends; and a taiko performance by Cal Raijin Taiko.

For Tana, heading the bazaar entertainment with Otonowa and Hikage has a special, personal meaning.

"The Satsuki Bazaar has served the Berkeley community for over 60 years. I feel honored to be part of the long list of wonderful participants to be invited to perform for this festive fundraising event for the Berkeley Buddhist Temple," Tana said. "What makes this year's participation very special is not just my personal connection to the Berkeley Buddhist Temple that goes beyond the bazaar's existence as my father was the minister at the temple before World War II, but that the group I will be performing with, Otonowa, has been involved in bringing music to communities in Tohoku (Northern Japan), still recovering from the earthquake and tsunami of 2011."

Paul Yonemura, who recently released his acclaimed CD titled "Kindred Spirits," will also perform with Bob Kenmotsu, saxophone; Bob Athayde, keyboards; John Wiitala, bass; and Yonemura, drums.

Cal Raijin Taiko is UC Berkeley's Japanese drumming performance ensemble. Founded in 2005, Cal Raijin Taiko performs for both the Cal campus community and beyond to help spread the knowledge and passion of taiko.

In addition, the 2017 Northern California Cherry Blossom Court will be in attendance to meet and greet festivalgoers on May 21. Carol Chen, a member of San Francisco Taiko Dojo since 2011, will return again this year to serve as emcee.

A portion of the proceeds will go to benefit Bay Area Rescue Mission of Richmond, which has been caring for the Bay Area's homeless and impoverished since 1965. For more information, visit <http://www.bayarearescue.org/>.
