

President's Message

Summer is an "in-between" time. Dharma School has ended and will begin again in the Fall. For graduating students, it is the time between high school and college, or college and a career. These in-between times are an opportunity to reflect on what has come before and what may come next. The result is a unique perspective as the graduating high school seniors emotively noted in their Parents' Day and Graduation messages.

Our in-between time is when we can be the most creative and meditative. It is the time that insures ongoing wisdom, broader perspective and ever-deeper compassion.

Metta,
Scott Takeda
